

40 years ago, a group of compassionate community members wanted to make a difference. Together, they rented a small storefront on Union Street in downtown Pasadena and began offering coffee, donuts and friendship to those who needed it most.

Today, Union Station Homeless Services is the San Gabriel Valley's largest, most comprehensive social service organization helping homeless men, women and children rebuild their lives.

We offer people everything they need from the time they come in off the street until the time they have keys to their own apartment. Our programs rebuild lives.

OUR PROGRAMS

Passageways

1020 Arroyo Parkway

When someone is homeless and in need of help, Passageways is the first step of the journey. This one-stop service center that offers a single entry point to Pasadena's homeless services network. Passageways provides outreach, intake and assessment, and medical and mental health services for nearly 1,900 homeless men, women and children each year. It is operated in partnership with Pacific Clinics.

Adult Center

412 S. Raymond Ave.

Each year, more than 150 adults rebuild their lives at the Adult Center, a 56-bed adult shelter. Offering 36 beds for men and 20 beds for women, residents receive safe shelter and the supportive services needed to achieve self-sufficiency. This location also serves as the site for our Shower and Community Meals Programs.

Family Center

825 E. Orange Grove Blvd.

The Family Center is a nurturing home-like environment that offers shelter for up to 50 parents and children each night, and approximately 125 people (40 families) each year. Supportive services are offered onsite to promote physical, emotional, and financial wellbeing for parents and their children.

Euclid Villa

154 S. Euclid Ave.

Euclid Villa is a transitional housing program that offers affordable apartments for up to 14 homeless, very low-income families. Residents pay 30% of their income towards rent and may stay for up to two years. Case management and supportive services are provided on-site. Euclid Villa is owned and operated by Union Station and Pacific Housing Alliance.

Sources

825 E. Orange Grove Blvd.

Sources is a career development program designed to meet the employment needs of homeless and very low-income job seekers. Each year, 125 work-ready adults participated in workshops, individualized job search assistance, and career counseling to find employment and advance their career.

Centennial Place

235 E. Holly Street

Union Station provides case management and onsite services at Centennial Place, a permanent supportive housing facility offering 142 single room occupancy (SRO) apartments for low-income adults. Centennial Place is owned and operated by Abode Communities.
